

Possible New Groups

The number of groups in our U3A is rising all the time (at present there are 101) but there is demand for more.

I have had enquiries about three possible new groups which are:

ART APPRECIATION

What this group would do would obviously be finally decided by the group members but one would envisage general discussions, visits to exhibitions and the like or presentations by group members on areas of interest to them.

DRIPPING TAPS

This would essentially be a group devoted to learning about or discussing household and D.I.Y basics or problems or anything of this sort that the group members decide upon.

WRITING FOR PLEASURE

We already have a Writing for Pleasure Group but there are a few more than the group can take and so we are hoping to set up a parallel one. The group would try their hands at some writing and discuss and give constructive advice to the writers.

Any member who might like to join any of these possible new groups should contact the Groups Co-ordinator, Hilary Taylor. When there are sufficient members registering interest then initial meetings for these groups will be arranged.
